Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	On The Spot is a question and answer show challenging viewers to recall middle and high school knowledge about history, science, math, English, second languages, health, geography, art, music, and technology, and then teaches them the answer. The show uses an entertaining on-the-street format to test how well young people know the information contained in their own national curriculum. The format allows a wide range of topics and allows topics to be blended. The program also succeeds in modeling all ages, races and genders as successful, knowledgeable individuals. Although there are right and wrong answers, there are right answers from people that every audience member can identify with so that they see a representative from their own group succeeding. In turn, it also allows viewers to learn respect for those outside their own group.

Program Title	Horseland [5.3] - final telecast 10/31/13
Origination	Network
Days/Times Program Regularly Scheduled:	MO-FR 6:30AM
Total times aired at regularly scheduled time:	23
Number of Preemptions	0
Length of Program	30 mins
Age of Target Child Audience	9 years to 11 years
Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Horseland uses a horse stable as a backdrop with multinational characters to teach viewers positive social behaviors and problem-solving. Horseland isn't just a stable where kids learn to ride and take care of animals. It reflects problems and issues that young girls and boys might encounter in the real world and shows possible solutions and positive behaviors. Sarah (wealthy parents), Alma (first generation Hispanic), Molly (African American from the city) and Bailey (son of stable's owners) strive to be the best competitive riders they can be. They learn dressage and how to take care of their horses, the stable and each other. They confront problems that challenge their honesty, integrity, self-confidence and at times their friendship. Their problems and how they deal with them serve as concrete examples of how young viewers can model these positive social behaviors. The animals in Horseland also have the ability to speak and give their insight and perspective on their young caretakers.
Does the program have educating and informing children ages 16 and under as a significant purpose?	Yes
